

Duke .

November 3, 2013 - November 27, 2023

Oh Duke, where do I start with Duke, my beautiful dog I remember the days when you ran away and came right back with your tail wagging. Your poor skin we tried everything to find medicines for you. I can't remember when you were never happy or jumping around. You were my childhood dog for 10 years. It's sad that we had to put you down but now you are in a better place with no pain. You were everything to me and I can't believe I lost your sweet little self. You were my first and will be my only dog because I could never go through the pain of losing a special sweet dog like you.
