Daddy's Sweet Boy....You arrived in my world so unexpectedly at only 2 weeks old gulping puppy milk every 3 hours and taking naps, I guess you knew that your journey ahead would be one full of adventure, energy and wonder. Harvey, you were the one consistent part of my journey almost from the time I moved to Atlanta, and for the past 10 years your presence made me a better human by showing me the truest definition of unconditional love. I don't know what life will look like without your energy or your overwhelming compassionate presence. My prayer is that I gave you the best life possible, that you felt loved and safe. My sweet boy, may you know that your heart, your gentle little paws and sweet little spirit touched many human hearts and its because of you that some of our families were created. I pray that as your eyes closed and my heart broke you know that the same love and care I offered you when you entered our lives is the same love that I offered to know you sought a healing beyond any human capabilities, may you rest in great joy with your reward. Thank you for giving more to me than I could've ever known or understood to give back. Go, Run, Play in the place where you'll never know pain again, my sweet little boy. -Your Broken Hearted Dad
