The sweet boy with 1000 nicknames. You are soo missed. Waking up and not having you be a part of my routine anymore hurts more than I ever thought it would. Not hearing your tip taps dancing for food breaks me. You just never realize a dog can take out such a big chunk of your heart when they're gone. He was our little Oscar the grouch. He didn't love everyone but when he did love you, he loved hard. Being there with your the the very last breath and having to make that decision for you, will always be the toughest and greatest thing I've ever experienced. Being able to make to decision and witness the pain leave your body and to see relaxation and peace in your body and eyes will be the greatest honor I ever was given. You are our little Zigmeister forever and no other dog will ever be able to replace your my boy. I love you so dearly, our moo bear. I promise I have a tomahawk steak in hand for you when I see you on the other side
